

Allie Budney

Allie Budney is an accomplished singer and inspiring educator with a passion for sharing her gift with the younger generation. She has been training in singing since the age of five when she joined the Young Naperville Singers and began to expand her knowledge in the concepts of music.

Through YNS she has sung at the infamous Carnage hall and throughout Washington DC. She has also been taking voice lessons through various groups since 10 years old and at Benet Academy is a part of their collegiate chorus and musical program where she continues to grow as a musician. Budney not only adores singing but also loves inspiring youth to do the same.

Starting her Freshman year she became a mentor through YNS which has been a group she has been committed to for 11 years, she mentors, and occasionally directs, their younger choir working to help kids grades 1-4 have a choir experience that will inspire them to stick with singing. She hopes to share her passion for teaching music beyond YNS and inspire fellow singers to follow their dreams—just as she has.
